AGAINST
Catherine F. McCall; and John Creighton and William Gilham, the two last under the firm of John Creighton & Company, Defendants.

THIS defendant Catherine F. McCall not having entered her appearance and given security according to the statute and the rules of this court, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the court, upon affidavit, that said defendant, Catherine F. McCall, is not an inhabitant of this District—on motion of the said complainant, by his counsel, it is ordered, That the said defendant, Catherine F. McCall, do appear here on the first day of the next Term, and enter her appearance to the suit, and give security for performing the decrees of the court; and that the other defendants, John Creighton and Company, do not pay away, convey or dispose, the debts by them owing to, or the estate or effects in their hands belonging to the said absent defendant Catherine F. McCall, until the further order or decree of this court; and that a copy of this order be forthwith published for two months successively in one of the public newspapers published in this county; and that another copy be posted at the front door of the court-house of the said county.

PROPOSALS
BY JOSEPH M. SANDERSON,
for publishing by subscription,
BIOGRAPHY OF THE SIGNERS
TO THE
Declaration of Independence,
ACCOMPANIED WITH PLATES;
in which will be annexed a history of the proceedings of congress during the passage of the law, and the Declaration itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures.

By PAUL ALLEN, Esq.

TO THE PUBLIC.

It seems a little surprising that amongst so many subjects as have been presented for American Biography, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to the Declaration of Independence have been overlooked or disregarded. The eyes of thousands have dwelt with rapture upon the document that announced to the world that these United Colonies were, and of right ought to be, free, sovereign, and independent states;" while we are better acquainted with the handwriting than with the characters of many of those illustrious men who have added their signatures to that instrument. The founders of the only remaining republic on the globe, have, with a few splendid exceptions, gone to their graves, and it behoves a generous posterity, capable of their obligations, to preserve their fame. The longer we neglect the payment of so sacred a debt, the more difficult does the payment become.—Traits of individual character are fugitive and evanescent; and if they are not snatched by the hand of the Biographic Muse, at an early season, from the cold grasp of death, will soon partake of the oblivion of the body.—It is not the object of the present attempt, ideal in that profusion of indiscriminate and unsparing panegyric, so often and so falsely dignified with the name of Biography: we wish to represent the characters as they were; they stand in need of no panegyric; and we earnestly solicit from the surviving relations and friends of those revolutionary patriots all the information that will tend to a developement of character. Man is the creature of circumstance, and we wish to show the progress of those patriots from their first resistance of colonial oppression, until they stood forth the noble and undaunted champions of their country's independence. All this can only be done by a familiar acquaintance with the lives of those men, and whoever of the surviving friends or relatives will furnish facts and circumstances in their possession to unfold and illustrate their characters, shall be entitled to a copy of the work as a recompense. It is contemplated, wherever it is practicable, further to embellish the medium work with correct likenesses of the subjects of our biography, executed by the most eminent artists in the country. For this purpose we again solicit the assistance of their surviving relatives and friends. If any will transmit to the publisher any engraving or portrait from which a copy may be taken, the original shall be faithfully returned, and shall likewise be remunerated with a copy of the work. In the first number it is proposed to give an account of the Declaration of Independence, from the first motion that was made on the floor of congress until its final passage into a law, a period embracing much curious and secret history: finally, we promise to add to our first number the Declaration of Independence itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures. We have now compendiously stated the objects of our present undertaking, and we hope that it will be unnecessary to mention that no exertions on our part shall be spared.

The public are now in possession of our object, which does indeed seem to be demanded, by the avidity so recently displayed for the possession of the Declaration of Independence, since it is of very little import to become acquainted with a man's hand writing without a previous knowledge of the man. The secret history of our Declaration of Independence, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to that instrument, accompanied by their likenesses, and finally the Declaration itself with facsimiles of the signatures, will bring into one compact view the prominent facts of that interesting crisis.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers, or half volumes, of 150 pages octavo, and will be contained in ten numbers.

II. It will be printed on fine paper made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number of volume or number, payable on delivery.

EXCHANGE BANKING HOUSE, AND BROKER'S OFFICE,
Bridge-street, Georgetown.

THIS is intended as a permanent establishment, and the community will find it one of the greatest conveniences in the United States, and of great public utility. At this house the fair exchange on the different bank notes from every part of the union can at all times be had: It is to be hoped that, by the operations of this office, the community will get rid of a host of Shinocks, Shavers, Secret and Running Brokers, who infest the District, frequently proclaiming the failure of country solvent banks, for the express purpose of purchasing the notes of such institutions at great discounts. Business under the following heads will be transacted. This establishment possesses funds to negotiate for any amount, and all business done for cash.

1st. All bank checks, bills at sight, post notes not due, and bank notes from all parts of the United States, bought and sold.

2d. All notes, bills of exchange, dividends and interests, collected and remitted according to orders.

3d. The notes of the United States' bank and all of its branches received at par.

4th. Strangers, citizens, and others, may deposit current money for safe keeping—and if left for thirty days, or longer, will receive at the rate of six per cent. per annum for the same.

5th. All business in the line of a money broker promptly attended to for a small commission.

6th. All southern and western traders, bringing to the district large sums of southern and western bank notes, can deposit for safe keeping, and draw for the same as may suit their convenience.

7th. Prompt attention paid to the orders of all respectable brokers and exchange offices throughout the United States—who will please to favor me occasionally with their rates of exchange on bank notes and bills.

Gone to the Southward or Westward,

A YELLOW WOMAN, called Celia Detcher, in the 23d year of her age, about 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high—marks like moles on the right side of her face, which, with several letters on her left arm, were made with india ink. She is about four months gone in a state of pregnancy—followed her husband, Jim Clark, a yellow man, who was purchased from this place and taken away in company with a large number of slaves, about two week ago, by a man of the name of Basset. It is supposed they have gone to the westward: Celia was born free, and had with her a notarial certificate of her freedom, and description of her person. Her mother, the subscriber, is much afflicted by her manner of going away, and desires that any humane people who may chance to meet with her, will persuade her to return, being apprehensive that when she gets into a strange country, where she will be unknown and out of the reach of her friends and those who would be likely to protect her, attempts may be made by some avaricious and unprincipled persons, to deprive her of her liberty, and sell her for a slave. Should any such attempts be made, fifty dollars reward will be paid to any person who will communicate such information as shall lead to the conviction of the offenders, and the recovery of the woman.

To the Public.

AN unusual sensibility has been excited in the minds of our countrymen by the copper plate engraving of the Declaration of Independence recently published, accompanied by fac similes of the signatures of those illustrious patriots who framed the document by which our independence was announced to the world. We feel, while we dwell on those signatures, as if we were ushered into the immediate presence of characters so exalted, and we seem for a time to participate in all the emotion which they felt on the approach of so awful a crisis—Hostile armies, desolate fields, towns and cities in conflagration—carnage and death in its most frightful forms apeared in prophetic vision on the one hand, and more than all, the complicated horrors, ignominy and slavery were presented for their acceptance on the other; they deliberated, they paused, they trembled, and at last solemnly appealing to the God of battles, they resolved that the United States were and ought to be free, sovereign and independent. These illustrious patriots, with five solitary exceptions, have now mingled with the common mould—they survive only in their country's glory and in the recollection of a grateful people. But it would be consoling to the present generation, separated as they now are from those patriots, by the intervention of the tomb, to become more intimately acquainted with their revolutionary benefactors. We love to dwell on the features of such men, sketched by the pencil from the oblivion of the grave, and emulate the prominent feats of their biography. Impressed with these ideas, the subscriber proposes, if suitable encouragement is given, to publish the lives of those patriots in numbers, until the whole is completed. The work will be executed in a style not inferior to any European productions, and the portraits by masters of acknowledged merit. The biography will be written by Paul Allen, esq. whose intimacy with the several signers, whose familiarity with the privations and hardships they had to undergo, and whose well known talents will be sufficient to ensure the patronage of an enlightened people. In the execution of this work, all that the publisher dares to promise is, that he will endeavor to deserve the confidence of his countrymen, and that no exertion on his part will be wanting to prevent an abuse of that confidence. He ventures to solicit the assistance of those gentlemen in possession of authentic facts and anecdotes, by communicating the intelligence that will serve to illustrate the characters and to enrich the biography of those founders of the American Republic.—Those who are in possession of their portraits would enlarge the obligation by a loan of the same.

A prospectus with the terms will be given in a few days.

Laws of the District of Columbia.

In the press, and will shortly be published,
By DAVIS & FORCE,
IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON,
"A COMPLETE CODE OF LAWS
With a copious Index, prepared and reported by the Hon. chief justice CRANCH, to the congress of the United States, for their sanction; agreeably to the provisions of the act of the 29th April, 1816, entitled "an act authorising the judges of the circuit court and the attorney for the District of Columbia, to prepare a code of jurisprudence for the said District."

The laws by which this District is now governed, can only be found by a reference to the numerous volumes containing those of the United States, of the states of Virginia and Maryland, and of England—therefore the acquisition of this code (which will comprise the whole in one volume,) must be considered as of the first importance, by all magistrates, gentlemen of the bar, and citizens in general, who have, heretofore, experienced the necessity of a work of this description.

A few extra copies will be printed for such persons only as apply previous to the publication of the work.

☞Gentlemen who wish to be supplied, will please to leave their names at this office. Dec 5

The National Register

IS a paper which is published, every Saturday, at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, and each number contains sixteen pages octavo, in small but very legible type. It makes two volumes in the year; and every volume is accompanied with a copious Index. The price per annum is five dollars, payable in advance. The Public Documents, both foreign and domestic; the proceedings of Congress, and authentic news of every description, are regularly inserted therein, and accompanied by critical and explanatory remarks. Its value is also enhanced by occasional reviews of literary works; and all its sentiments are decidedly American, independent of all party considerations. For this work, which is well established, regularly published, and transmitted weekly to subscribers by the mail, the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1819.

From the St. Louis Enquirer.

NORTH WESTERN INDIANS.

The following article presents some considerations entitled to attention. We are perhaps in the habit of thinking too little of the great region of wilderness beyond the Missouri.

Probable War with the Indians—its favorable Consequences—Increase of the American and Decrease of the British Fur-Trade—greater Influence of the Americans.

That the expedition to the mouth of the Yellow-stone will eventuate in producing a war with the Indians bordering on the Missouri and contiguous to the settlement intended to be estabished, is an opinion entertained by many. And indeed, were we to draw conclusions from analogy, and the past—from the uniform custom of all ages, whether civilized or barbarous, who have always viewed with a jealous eye the encroachments of a contiguous power—from the undue influence possessed by the British traders over the minds of the Indians—this opinion seems to attach to itself a more imposing grade of probability than is ordinarily given to conjecture. What is conjecture now, will probably one day be history; and perchance the prairies of the Missouri will be as famous in history as the plains of the Alabama.

Government, we understand, has ordered two regiments to this place; one to ascend the Mississippi as far as Praire-du-Chien, the other most probably to the mouth of the Yellow stone. These measures, while they evince a forecast of character highly creditabe to secretary Calhoun, also shew the apprehensions of government. In attacking a hunting party of the Yellow-stone detachment, and other evidences of hostility, the Indians have given a prologue to the great drama they intend to act; and it perchance the genius of a Tecumseh should breath its counterpart in the soul of some high-minded chieftain, and excite him to aim at a coalition amongst his brother kings they could be enabled to raise a force that will require a large portion of our standing army successfully to oppose them.

They have been driven from the most extreme east to the westeramost verge of this vast continent—from the rising towards the setting sun. For centuries they have been accustomed to see their territories contract at the touch of the American people—they have seen their numbers, their influence, and their possessions, dwindle into nothing, and themselves, the rightful owners of the soil, driven from the resting place of their forefathers.

Will they not naturally suspect that an establishment so far in the heart of their country is but the prelude to farther encroachments? and, believing so, will they not identify action with belief, and oppose what they believe to be intrusion? It then behoves the constituted authorities to take precautionary measures, in order to be prepared for any event. If the war should happen, the result, sooner or later, will be in our favor, and the more vigorous the incipient operations, the sooner will they be disposed to peace. A war with the Indians will be productive of great injury to themselves, and of corresponding good to us; it will be the means of giving a death blow to the prospects of the British fur company,—and it will go to the source of that fatal British influence amongst the Indians, so clearly evinced by the devastation of our frontier settlements, and the murder of women and children.

The Indians will be so greatly undeceived, that they will put no more confidence, repose no more faith on British promises—it will open their eyes to their real interests. Cautionary posts will be established at proper distances, with efficient garrisons to prevent the North West and Hudson Bay companies from entering into any competition with American traders, and St. Louis instead of Montreal, will become the focus of the trade. For an account of the immense profits derived from which, we refer our readers to an interesting article on the fur trade, published in a late number of the Enquirer.*

It will make the Indians respect our character, and it would probably be the last Indian war of consequence that we should be engaged in. And if our soldiers and traders would blend the gentle and humane virtues with "the terrible stern aspect of war," they would probably transfer their affections from the British to the American government.

Perhaps it may be asked, what will be done with the Indians under such circumstances?—We answer, treat them as brothers and mingle with the mass of white population; or, if that be impracticable, affix certain boundaries, and let the constituted authorities say to the rolling tide of emigration "thus far shalt thou go, and no further;" or, if they did transcend those limits, let them be answerable for the consequences.

* In that article, instead of saying the British north west company employed 200, it should have been 2000 engagees.

ENGLISH SETTLEMENTS IN ILLINOIS.

From some secret cause, it appears another settlement is growing out of the prairie settlement of Morris Birkbeck. Several who went to join him, have now formed a "New English Settlement," about fifty miles distant from the praries, and within ten miles of the Ohio river. A Mr. Currie, from Wellingbro,' England, has purchased 10,000 acres of land, and intends going to England early this spring to bring out a number of agriculturists, to settle upon it. Thirty six quarter sections are also entered by Pennsylvanian friends, (quakers) near the spot, and a great number of families are going out to settle thereon. The account states, that there are almost daily arrivals of persons emigrating or migrating into these western wilds. Contrary to the calculations of the writer on Birkbeck's Letters, in the "Village Record," on the unhealthiness of that spot; who indeed seems to have had an interested eye on Susquehannah county, Pennsylvania, the settlement has been remarkably healthy; the children being hearty, hale, and rosy, as when in England.

The winter had been unusually fine up to 18th January.

From the Philadelphia Daily Advertiser.

MR. POULSON,

If in your opinion the following sentiments, will have a tendency to increase our markets, and excite gratitude in our fellow cittzens, you will no doubt give them a place in your useful paper.

A scarcity of money is generally complained of, not only in our cities, but also throughout the country. I think of all men in this world, our farmers have the least cause to complain. They are the most independent of any people on the globe. In proportion to their necessary expenditures, their resources are greater than others.

Farmers have a great variety of articles to dispose of, which if brought to market, will always bring a good price. I think, if it was generally known to those who have a surplus of provisions, that in Philadelphia they could get from 25 to 37½ cts. per pound for fresh Butter, and from 8 to 12 cents a pound for Veal, and all other articles in proportion, many would be induced to come a few miles further than usual, to such a market.

As our cities are constantly increasing, there is sufficient encouragement to bring forward a much larger supply of provisions. There has been a greater number of emigrants from Europe, the last three years, than usual, which is, in part, the cause of the markets keeping up so high in our sea port towns. As a remedy for the scarcity of money, which is so generally complained of, let the farmers come forward with what they have to spare.

Let all our citizens live according to their circumstances, live economically and prudently, and reflect on the goodness of that benificent Being, who has so highly favored this happy country in giving among other temporal blessings, such a full supply for man and beast, in every part of our land, as to make us the envy of the world. On the subject of murmuring' Cowper wrote those striking lines:

"Were half the breath thus vainly spent,
To Heaven in supplication sent:
Your cheerful songs would oft'ner be,
Hear what the Lord has done for me!"

MURDER CASES.

At the court of oyer and terminer in Chester county, last week, there were two trials for murder

The first, of Joseph Keys, for the murder of his brother John Keys, in November last. The brothers lived with their mother in Westcain, and the trial disclosed symptoms of depravity on the part of all three, to which human nature rarely sinks. The murder appears to have been committed with an axe, in a quarrel. The deceased received one cut in the side, and a severe blow on the breast with the pole of the axe, which last wound occasioned his death. He was about, however, for several days after receiving the wounds, before he died, and it is presumed that if proper care had been taken, death would not have ensued. The conduct of the prisoner and mother, when the neighbors came in, and upon a subsequent examination of the body, was truly shocking and their language blasphemous in the extreme. Mr. Markley is said to have made an eloquent speech in his defence. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and sentenced to ten years imprisonment at hard labor. He has been in the penitentiary before.

The other trial was that of Jehu Simmons, for the murder of George Shivers, his uncle. This is what the lawyers would have decided to be a case of murder in the first degree. It grew out of a quarrel occasioned by playing a game resembling cards, and drinking whiskey. The parties resided in Kennett. The prisoner with four of his brothers were at the house of the deceased. A bottle of whiskey had been procured from a place called Scrabbletown, well known to camp Dupont soldiers. In the game Jehu lost and would not pay deceased; high words ensued, and Jehu left the house—the wife of deceased went out, endeavored to pacify him, and to persuade him to come in—he was at length prevailed upon to return, shook hands with deceased and again sat down to play. The quarrel was soon renewed upon the same point; when prisoner with one of his brothers left the house. After going as it appears about half a mile, they turned back, and came again to the house of deceased; prisoner hallooed at the door that he had left his pocket handkerchief—deceased and the brothers went out—words ensued—prisoner threw a club at deceased and run—deceased followed him a few steps and returned. Two of the brothers had clinched, in the mean time, and in the struggle fell; deceased was about hauling one of his brothers off from his antagonist when the prisoner who was standing at some distance, picked up a stone, advanced and struck him on the fore part of the head—the blow was so severe as to fracture his skull and knock him down apparently lifeless. He soon recovered, and it was not immediately discovered that his skull was fractured, nor was he supposed to be in danger. No operation was performed and he died in a few days. After burial the body was taken up, a coroner's inquest held, and upon examination by a scientific gentleman, a part of the stone, a sharp corner, was found remaining in the wound, having pierced the skull and penetrated the brain.

The trial occupied the best part of a day, and the jury not being able to agree before eleven o'clock at night, the court adjourned until nine the next morning, when a verdict was returned, "Guilty of murder in the second degree." This prisoner was also sentenced to ten years imprisonment at hard labor—the court observing that they should have gone further but for the evidence of his previous good character.

[Village Record.

Perhaps two such cases never came before one term of any court, as those of Keys and Simmons. One for the murder of his brother—the other for that of his uncle.—The scenes of each different and distant—all the parties at each relations, and all intoxicated at the time of each.

THE ART OF PRINTING.

It will probably be recollected, that Mr. George Clymer, of this city, went to Europe some time ago with his "Columbian Printing Press," in order to exhibit in that part of the world his new invention. He presented one of them to the Emperor of Russia. The Emperior directed his minister of the interior to have it examined. The minister committed the task to four eminent printers at St. Petersburgh, of as many different nations, viz. a Russian, a German, a Frenchman, and an Englishman. On a thorough inspection and trial of the machine, the report from these four individuals was so decided as to its superiority over all printing presses heretofore in use, that the emperor, to mark his sense of so ingenious and useful an improvement in this great art, presented Mr. Clymer with the sum of six thousand roubles. We have derived this fact through a source which renders it unquestionable and take great pleasure in giving it to the public, as an evidence at once of American ingenuity, and of the munificence of the Emperor Alexander.

ANCIENT BRIDGE.

Between Valte and Exloo, in the Need (a marsh) in the district of Dienthe, a bridge has been discovered 4 feet under ground, which has been uncovered for the length of a league and a half, and the end of which is not yet known. The following are some particulars. The bridge, of which more is daily discovered, runs from the Weerdingerloot, through the marsh, passed Haar, and the convent Ser Apel, a distance of above three full leagues. It consists principally of rough firs, of the length of twelve feet, neatly laid together. When the marsh ground is carefully taken up, no intervals is to be seen between these stems, which are on an average three or four inches in diameter. Hereand there instead of stems, there are split plank; of the above length, and various diameters. There is no nails, and all is hewn with the axe. It is generally believed that this is the bridge of Germanicus, mentioned by Tacitus, and which was laid about this place by 40 Roman cohorts, on occasion of a hasty retreat, 15 years after the birth of Christ.

From the Keene (N. H.) Sentinel.

Accounts from Persia represent the Prince Royal to be the friend of christians in that Mahomedan Empire. He has lately assembled a Divan composed of the principal doctors of the law, and proposed the questions—whether Jesus Christ was a true prophet, sent from God? whether his laws are just? and whether it is lawful to blaspheme his laws? The two first questions were decided in the affirmative: and the last in the negative. The prince is said since to have punished one of his domestics for insulting a christian.

From the Otaheitan Island in the south sea, we learn that idolatry hath been universally renounced. Their gods and their altars are utterly destroyed, and the worship of the true god and the acknowledgement of christianity are universal.—In Taheite, alone, 66 chapels have been built, and in Elmo 16.—About 4000 persons have learned to read, write, &c.

Extract of a letter received from Glasgow, (Scotland,) dated December 8.

"There have been a great many sudden deaths this fall, and the Typhus has increased—there never was such a mild winter in this country; no frost yet at all, which is greatly wanted to check the vegetation. The turnips in the fields are running up to seed; and the wheat into the shot blade; gooseberries out; rasberries ripe; green peas, abundant and cheap—and birds' nests with young, in thousands all over the country."

BONAPARTE'S PHYSICIAN.

In consequence of the intervention of the allied sovereigns at Aix-la-Chapelle, the family of Bonaparte at Rome have been invited to choose and nominate a physician to attend on the ex-emperor in St. Helena, and accordingly they have appointed M. de Beauregard, the able medical man who attended on Bonaparte in the isle of Elba, and who returned with him to Paris, where he remained at the particular request of Napolean, but with instructions to follow him to North-America, as soon as it should be known where he had taken up his abode.—M. de Beauregard is to go out immediately, and we have no doubt but that it is part of the arrangement, effected by representations made at congress, that this gentleman will not find sir Hudson Lowe governor, on his arrival.

Marblehead, Feb. 3.

Arrived Brig Rolla, Hooper, 22 days fr. Aux-Cayes. Capt. Hooper reports that previous to his sailing, the schr. Perry, of Baltimore was brought into Aux-Cayes by one of the country droging schrs. picked up at sea without main mast, and no person on board. It was supposed she was plundered, and every person on board massacreed, by the piratical barges belonging to the south of St. Domingo—(the Indigenes.) Frequent depredations of this kind are committed by the barges fitted out and manned by them.—There was nothing found on board but a few barrels of bread stuff and an American ensign considerably torn. The Perry sailed fr. Aux Cayes for New Providence about 14 days previous to her being picked up, with a cargo of beef, bread, flour, &c. There were two or three gun schrs fitted out fr. Port-au-Prince, to guard the coast, and the pirates on board the Perry, concluding that the droger who took possession of her was one of them, immediately took in the boat and made for the Isle of Ash (off Aux Cayes) when the droger took possession of her.—Spoke, Jan. 20, in Crooked Island Passage, schr. ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1819.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON

Wednesday, February 17.

Something worth particularising passsed yesterday in the house of representatives. The motion of Mr. Tallmadge, to amend the Missouri state bill, by excluding slave holders from that state, was argued in the house again, as it had been in the committee of the whole—and the question being taken by yeas and nays on it, was decided in the affirmative: yeas 87, nays 76. On the second amendment, freeing those born in the state after 25 years of age, there were, yeas 82, nays 78. We still have the old hankering upon us!!

Mr. Williams, of North Carolina, moved to call up his motion for a reduction of the army—but his motion was rejected by a majority of ten.

In the Senate, yesterday, no business of, leading importance was perfected; though many bills passed through different stages, which will be hereafter noticed.

In the House of Representatives, a decision took place in committee of the whole which, if confirmed by the House, may be expected to have an important bearing on the political relations of the several states and to have a wider scope of operation than, on the face of it, would be supposed. It was, to annex a restriction on the embryo state of Missouri, from admitting into the constitution, which the people are to be authorised to form, the recognition of the principle of slavery. This is the first instance of such a restriction being imposed on the new states; and the result of the motion, to superadd it to the provisions of the bill, appears to have been wholly unexpected.

By an examination of the merits of this question, we will not anticipate the views which will be presented by such speeches as made on the subject, as shall be reported. National Intelligencer, Feb. 16.

The Vice-President having retired from the Chair of President of the Senate, for the remainder of the present session, the Honorable James Barbour, of Virginia, was yesterday chosen President pro tempore of that body. [Ibid.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pobick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain; being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

BY JOSEPH M. SANDERSON,
for publishing by subscription,
A BIOGRAPHY OF THE SIGNERS
TO THE
Declaration of Independence,
ACCOMPANIED WITH PLATES;

To which will be annexed a history of the proceedings of congress during the passage of the law, and the Declaration itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures.

By PAUL ALLEN, Esq.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT seems a little surprising that amongst so many subjects as have been presented for American Biography, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to the Declaration of Independence have been overlooked or disregarded. The eyes of thousands have dwelt with rapture upon the document that announced to the world that "these United Colonies were, and of right ought to be, free, sovereign, and independent states;" while we are better acquainted with the handwriting than with the characters of many of those illustrious men who have added their signatures to that instrument. The founders of the only remaining republic on the globe, have, with a few splendid exceptions, gone to their graves, and it behoves a generous posterity, sensible of their obligations, to preserve their fame. The longer we neglect the payment of so sacred a debt, the more difficult does the payment become.—Traits of individual character are fugitive and evanescent; and if they are not snatched by the band of the Biographic Muse, at an early season, from the cold grasp of death, will soon partake of the oblivion of the body.—It is not the object of the present attempt, to deal in that profusion of indiscriminate and unsparing panegyric, so often and so falsely dignified with the name of Biography: we wish to represent the characters as they were; they stand in need of no panegyric; and we earnestly solicit from the surviving relations and friends of those revolutionary patriots all the information that will tend to a developement of character. Man is the creature of circumstance, and we wish to show the progress of those patriots from their first resistance of colonial aggression, until they stood forth the noble and undaunted champions of their country's independence. All this can only be done by a familiar acquaintance with the lives of these men, and whoever of the surviving friends or relatives will furnish facts and circumstances in their possession to unfold and illustrate their characters, shall be entitled to a copy of the work as a recompense. It is contemplated, wherever it is practicable, further to embellish the meditated work with correct likenesses of the subjects of our biography, executed by the most eminent artists in the country. For this purpose we again solicit the assistance of their surviving relatives and friends. If they will transmit to the publisher any engraving or portrait from which a copy may be taken, the original shall be faithfully returned, and shall likewise be remunerated with a copy of the work. In the first number it is proposed to give an account of the Declaration of Independence, from the first motion that was made on the floor of congress until its final passage into a law, a period embracing much curious and secret history: finally, we promise to add to our last number the Declaration of Independence itself, with fac-simile engravings of the signatures. We have now compendiously stated the objects of our present undertaking, and we hope that it will be unnecessary to mention that no exertions on our part shall be spared.

The public are now in possession of our project, which does indeed seem to be demanded, by the avidity so recently displayed for the possession of the Declaration of Independence, since it is of very little import to become acquainted with a man's hand writing without a previous knowledge of the man. The secret history of our Declaration of Independence, the lives of those who have affixed their signatures to that instrument, accompanied by their likenesses, and finally the Declaration itself with fac-similes of the signatures, will bring into one compact view the prominent facts of that interesting crisis.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers, or half volumes, of 150 pages octavo, and will be contained in ten numbers.

II. It will be printed on fine paper made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per half volume or number, payable on delivery.

☞Subscriptions will be received at the office of the Alexandria Gazette.
